Pastoral Care Support and Counselling

Personal and emotional issues • Adjusting to life in New Zealand • Homesickness • Pastoral care support (health and wellbeing) • Finance • Accommodation • Insurance questions • General enquiries •

Please contact the International Coordinator who is available to talk about any of these issues. A list of suggested local counsellors is available on request.

We also have a "Where to go for help" chart.

Student Concerns and Complaints

It is our desire that you enjoy your journey with us at Bethlehem Tertiary Institute and we are committed to providing a safe and fair study environment. Complaints are treated seriously and BTI will attempt to resolve them in a timely manner.

If you have any concerns with a staff member or a student, try to resolve the problem directly with the person(s) concerned. Wherever possible, issues should be resolved by a process of discussion and prayer.

If the matter is not resolved, please talk to the International Student Coordinator or Year Group Mentor or Coordinator, or your Programme Leader.

Student Concerns and Complaints Policy (also available on BTI website, Student Policies SG.08)

1. All concerns and complaints shall be dealt with in a manner that is respectful and likely to gain early resolution.
2. In accordance with the principles of Matthew 18, students must make every attempt to resolve concerns at the earliest opportunity with those most directly involved within the programme or service group in which it originated, unless it is deemed by the complainant or support person to be of a particularly serious nature.
3. In such cases the complainant can write to the Student Engagement Coordinator outlining the issue and requesting an appointment.
4. All concerns or complaints must be raised within 30 days of the event causing the concern or complaint, or from the time that the event came to the notice of the complainant.
5. In any meetings or discussions, complainants have the right to a support person.
6. In the event of a complainant feeling that initial efforts to resolve a disagreement are unsuccessful, the complainant may make written approach to the Executive Leadership Team (ELT).
7. A complaint forwarded in writing to the ELT will be fully investigated before a decision is made and resolution sought. The decision of the ELT will be communicated in writing.
8. Where a complaint relates to harassment, the relevant policy should be applied.
9. In the case of 'distance' students, then the use of either telephone or a digital platform (Skype, Zoom, Collaborate or Facetime) contact could replace face-to-face meetings.
10. Where a complainant is not satisfied with the decision of the ELT, they may appeal in writing to the Chairperson, BTI Board of Directors.
11. In the case of an international student having been through the above process, and dissatisfied with the outcome, they may access iStudent Complaints which is the appointed operator of the International Student Contract Dispute Resolution Scheme (DRS). This was set up to resolve financial and contractual disputes (for example an enrolment or accommodation contract).

- safe, physically, and mentally

- International learners receive appropriate orientations, information and advice
- Safety and appropriate supervision of international tertiary learners

Visit the NZQA website for full details of what's covered in the Code (PDF).

Or visit the NZQA website for more info about the Code.

Studying at BTI

Each 10-credit course has an expectation of 100 hours of work, a mix of in-class time and your own study, often including some online activities. Many students for whom English is an additional language will need to allow more time than this however, if they are slower at reading and writing in English. Fifteen-credit courses are expected to take a total of 150 hours.

Lecturers expect that students will be self-directed in their learning and take responsibility to attend lectures and do the reading as the semester progresses.

Useful Items to Bring

- A Bible in your own language
- Everyday casual clothes for lectures and evenings
- Photos of family and home
- Sleeping bag
- Smart clothes to wear on Practicum.
- Something more formal to wear if you wish for special occasions.
- Swim wear (we have hot pools here, so bring togs even in winter!)
- Winter clothing should include a warm coat or jacket, sweater, jeans, hat, gloves and wet weather gear.
- Other useful items could include a torch, laptop, clock, camera, musical instrument, sunglasses etc.

Withdrawal From your course and Refund of Student Fees

1. Any full-time or part-time student who withdraws from a programme or course within the first half of the academic semester, completes the formal documentation, and receives approval for withdrawal from Academic Board shall have "WD" entered in the student regulations. The Academic Board reserves the right to not approve the WD if deemed inappropriate.
2. If a student ceases to attend and/or complete required learning activities but does not withdraw formally, or withdraws after the halfway point of the academic semester, this shall be deemed an informal withdrawal and "DNC" shall be entered in the student regulations.
3. Eligibility for refund of fees is dependent upon formal withdrawal being made as determined by the guidelines of Policy SG.23 Refund of Student Fees.

Refund of Student Fees:

Early Withdrawal - if an international student withdraws before the published withdrawal date (up until the end of the tenth working day after the start date of the programme), the student is entitled to receive a full refund less a deduction for costs incurred by up to a maximum of 25% of fees paid, provided BTI incurred costs to this amount and can justify these costs.

If a student withdraws after the published withdrawal date for the academic year of their programme, and fees have been paid:

- i. there will be no refund in respect of the fees for full year or first semester courses.
- ii. fees paid for second or subsequent semesters will be refunded less an administration fee of 10% or $500.00, whichever is the lesser.
- iii. if fees have not been paid, the full fee for that semester is still payable to BTI. In addition, plus the administration fee for the second or subsequent semester will also apply

BTI will notify Immigration New Zealand Service if an international student withdraws or if a student's enrolment is terminated.

TAURANGA INFORMATION

Accommodation

There is no onsite accommodation available at this time at Bethlehem Tertiary Institute. Your accommodation needs to be arranged before you arrive in New Zealand for visa purposes.

Private Board/Homestay

Many first year BTI students arrange private board or home-stay accommodation with a New Zealand family. You will live as a family member, have your own room, and be provided with all meals. Current costs are approximately NZ $230-280 per week. New Zealand law does not allow you to work for a family in lieu of board payments.

There is an administration charge if you would like us to arrange accommodation for you. Please get in touch with us as soon as possible after being accepted into BTI if you would like us to do so, enclosing the administration charge of NZ$300 to cover costs. You will also need to complete a completed Student Information Sheet so that we can match your preferences to where you stay as much as possible. This is available upon request.

The International Coordinator who will oversee this process. Payments to your Homestay Hosts are made directly to them on a regular basis (weekly or fortnightly) after you arrive.

Please contact the International Coordinator for Homestay Information.

Other Accommodation options

You may prefer to stay in a flat with other students. You would then be responsible for providing your own food, and looking after yourself. You could usually expect to have your own bedroom, with shared living and bathroom facilities. Costs can vary a great deal. Have a look at the Tauranga rentals section of Trade Me or search the internet for other Tauranga homestay or rental options and costs.

There is an Accommodation Directory available at Reception of both private board and flatting possibilities. Please request this by email from reception@bti.ac.nz. Please note that these places, though offered to BTI and frequently used in previous years by other students, have not been checked for suitability by staff here.

LIVING IN NEW ZEALAND

Culture Shock

When you study abroad, your daily routine, culture, and the attitudes of people around you are no longer familiar. The process of recognizing, understanding, and adapting to these changes is called culture shock.

Much of our behaviour, like gestures, tone of voice, how we wait in lines (or don't wait), and interact, rely on collectively understood cultural cues. However, we don't actively pay attention to these -- they're our unspoken norm. In a new country, we become more aware of these cultural differences because they are different from our norm. This act of feeling disoriented and processing new ways of life, attitudes, and cultural norms is by definition "culture shock".

Tips for Dealing with Culture Shock

1. Learn about your host country and its culture

Read through travel forums, guidebooks and news reports. Get to know as much as you can about what's considered polite or rude in your host country. Be open-minded. Treat everything new as a chance to gain knowledge about the culture. Turn the shock into a learning experience or even treat it like an adventure, because to be honest, that's what it is!

2. Ask questions

Studying abroad in a new country can be difficult from the beginning and majority of the people around you know this. You'd be surprised how much people will be willing to help you. If you don't ask any questions, you're not going to get any answers.

3. Talk to other students about how you feel

You're likely to know other students who are studying abroad with you. Talk to them about how they feel about your host culture, strategies they've used to cope with cultural differences. Also, learn from them. They may have figured out something you're still confused about -- like why everyone keeps saying a particular phrase etc.

4. Find a healthy distraction

Take some time to yourself, watch an episode of your favorite TV show, cook a meal from home, or have a solo dance party in your house.

5. Make friends and establish connections

Culture shock has less of an effect if you are with people. This is particularly better if you are alongside other students also in the same boat, as you can go through the process together but also push yourself to make local friends. They're experts in their own culture and will be able to explain all the crazy little questions you have, and they'll pull you aside and tell you if you're doing something offensive or weird.

Making friends is very important, especially at the beginning as those friendships play a big part of your study experience as a whole.

6. Try to see things through your host culture's eyes

As you go through culture shock, try to put your own worldview in your pocket and try to understand the world the way your host culture does. Maybe you don't agree with some philosophies, and maybe it doesn't make sense within your own cultural context, and it doesn't have to. Just try to understand where they're coming from. Ask questions, be non-judgemental.

7. Get involved with the local community

Part of your feelings of culture shock may be because you feel like too much of an outsider, so get involved in your local community as much as possible. If you went to church at home, go to church there. If you volunteered at home, find a volunteer project in your host city. Join a sports team, go to major festivals, and make this new home a home!

8. Make an effort to learn the local language

Even if your programme is in English, make an effort to learn a few basic phrases (or more!) in the local language. It's not just a way to understand more of the culture (language and culture are linked), but also to make friends, feel more included, and hey -- it's just fun!

It is definitely not easy dealing with culture shock, but it is important to know that there are people always available to help you. You can always go to them for advice (see Pastoral Care and Counselling).

Depression

In some cases, culture shock can trigger depression. If you fear you are on the verge of or already in this state, don't try to get through it alone. Talk to a friend or the International Student Support Person. Don't isolate yourself.

Education – Learning in NZ

Many students find that what is expected of a student in New Zealand is very different from what they are used to. NZ educators value active participation in class. Students are expected to ask questions and research answers for themselves. They are expected to think independently and creatively. You will also be expected to complete background readings during the coursework. Teachers facilitate your learning, but do not provide all that you will need to know.

Study in New Zealand <https://www.studyinnewzealand.govt.nz/>

Employment

Students doing a course lasting two or more years are allowed to work up to 20 hours per week during the academic year. They are also eligible to work full-time over the summer holiday period.

You should always check the conditions of your student visa to see if you meet the requirements to be allowed to work, and the restrictions on the type of work you will be allowed to do. You can also apply for a variation of conditions at a later date, as long as your student visa is current.

Jobs are not always easy to come by and, by law, preference has to be given to New Zealand citizens or residents.

For more information, check out page 7-8 of the Student Visa Guide - <http://www.immigration.govt.nz/NR/rdonlyres/8D76710A-1F4A-452F-8C5D-8663738F560A/0/1013.pdf>

Health Matters

Most international students are not entitled to publicly funded health services while in New Zealand. If you receive medical treatment during your visit, you may be liable for the full costs of that treatment. Full details on entitlements to publicly-funded health services are available through the Ministry of Health, and can be viewed on their website at <http://www.moh.govt.nz/eligibility>.

Keeping Safe

Walking alone at night

- Where possible, always keep to well-lit areas.
- Keep bags containing valuables, wallets, purses etc close to your body
- Keep your cell phone where you can reach it.
- Walk close to the gutter, not beside shop doorways.
- Walk facing the traffic.
- If you think someone is following you
- Keep looking ahead and walk briskly.
- Cross the road and see if they follow.
- If they do, go to the nearest place where there are people.
- Call 111 and ask for Police.

If a driver stops and asks you for directions

- Be polite but stay out of reach.
- If you don't trust them, walk away quickly in the opposite direction.
- Don't accept a lift from a stranger.

Money and banking

We do not recommend carrying large sums of cash on your person. Opening an account in New Zealand is fast and easy. To open a bank account in NZ, you are likely to need your passport, proof of your residential address in New Zealand, and student visa. Some banks may ask for the Tax Identification Number (TIN) from your home country and some may also ask for a New Zealand IRD tax number.

Using a card is the most common way to pay in New Zealand, even for relatively small purchases. Debit cards are known as EFTPOS and can be used at most places to pay for goods and services electronically. ATMs (Automatic Teller Machines) allow you to withdraw money 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Te Tiriti o Waitangi & Maori Culture

Te Tiriti o Waitangi was signed in 1840 and was an agreement between the British Crown and a large number of Māori chiefs. Today the Treaty is widely accepted to be a constitutional document that establishes and guides the relationship between the Crown in New Zealand (embodied by our government) and Māori. Māori culture and language are essential to the identity of modern day Aotearoa, New Zealand.

BTI is committed to strengthening and growing the covenantal intent of Te Tiriti o Waitangi. Cultural values and perspectives are interwoven with our underlying Christian philosophy, principles, and vision. We recognise this journey is a continual move towards mana ōrite and the living out of relationships that build reconciliation and shalom.

Tikanga Māori is a set of cultural values, customs, and practices. This includes concepts such as what is sacred, caring for your community, rights to land by occupation, and other relationships between people and their environment.

Some common Māori practices at BTI (<https://bti.ac.nz/wp-content/uploads/Tikanga-Policy-2022.pdf>)

Pōwhiri:

A formal welcome that is the beginning point for manaakitanga and whakawhanaungatanga to be experienced and provides an opportunity for the whānau whānui of Te Whare Tauira o Peterehama (BTI) to practice this vital Māori custom of human encounter. The pōwhiri process is intended to welcome all new staff and students to BTI.

Whakatau/Mihi Whakatau:

An informal welcome (generally for manuhiri that are returning) that is the renewing point for manaakitanga and whakawhanaungatanga, to be experienced. The process also provides an opportunity for the whānau whānui of Te Whare Tauira o Peterehama to take care of integrity of relationships through welcoming these manuhiri back.

Kai:	Sharing kai is an integral element of Tikanga Māori and central to Māori custom and beliefs. With respect to human encounter it is critical component of Māori cultural and spiritual processes and practices. It offers manaakitanga and in the process releases those gathering from a state of tapu to a state of noa.
Whakawhanaungatanga:	An important aspect of building relationships, therefore all staff are encouraged to create space for engaging in deliberate interactions with each other and students.
Karakia:	A fundamental element of Tikanga Māori and central to Māori custom and beliefs. With respect to human encounters it is integral to all significant hui and Māori cultural and spiritual processes and practices (e.g., opening and closing of hui, pōwhiri, mihi whakatau, mihimihi, before eating and all other ceremonial activity).
Waiata:	An integral part of Tikanga Māori and the activities of Te Whare Tauira o Peterehama. Staff are encouraged to actively participate in waiata and for students time is allocated for learning waiata within course delivery .
